The Routine Become the Artist

The Sculptor

2 Exclusive tools to enhance your skincare ritual for unparalleled skin results.

The Ritual

Apply 1-2 times per week or as preparation for a special event, when needed, to face and neck, as the last step of your skincare ritual, before sleeping.

STEP 1

Dispense the mask from the Active Dose onto the bespoke Gua Sha tool like an artist setting up their palette.

STEP 2

Use the silicone brush applicator, designed for optimal hygiene and safety, to apply the mask directly to the whole face and neck including eye area, until there is no formula on the palette.

STEP 3

Finally, use the Gua Sha tool to sculpt.

1. Begin with the long-curved edge at the back of the neck and run up towards your hairline. The gliding action should be smooth but firm with a moment of pause and pressure at the top of each stroke. Repeat this lifting action around the entire neck.

2. Use the "V" structure and position along your jawline at your chin. Glide in an upwards motion towards the ear, pausing here at the pressure point. Repeat each side three times.

3. Continue with the "V" structure to lift from the smile line, repeat motion three times on either side of the face.

4. Above the cupid's bow, use a pointed edge to delicately move from inside out.

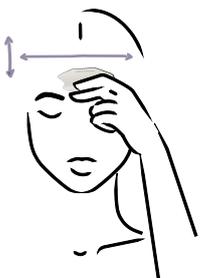

5. The "V" structure then hugs underneath the cheekbones to provide a lifting sculpt; you may pause at the pressure point near the temples.

6. Use the double pointed edge of the Gua Sha tool to address the pressure points located in between the brow bone by applying light kneading pressure to relieve tension. The "V" structure can also be used across brow bones depending on face shape.

7. Use the pointed edge to delicately circle the ocular orbit. Moving from the nose outwards and upwards around the brow bone, and then inwards towards the inner corner of your eye. This inwards motion avoids tugging on the under-eye area.

8. Use a straight edge to run along any forehead lines moving from right to left. Across the entire forehead draw lines from your hairline to brow bone. Complete this motion by gliding the Gua Sha edge from the center of the forehead out towards the hairline.

9. Complete the ritual by draining lymph back to the body with the long curved edge gliding down the sides of your neck.

Move from left to right across forehead lines, repeat motion vertically. Final stroke from center outwards

Feather-light strokes circle the entire orbital area
